

2019 Gerontology Conference: Working Towards Integrated Care

Wednesday, May 22, 2019

8:30 am – 4:00 pm

The Laureate Center

Kannapolis, NC

*Co-sponsored by Charlotte AHEC
& UNC-Chapel Hill Eshelman School of Pharmacy.*

Target Audience

Physicians, Physician Assistants, Nurse Practitioners, Nurses, Pharmacists, Social Workers, PT, OT

Goal

This day-long conference will offer a variety of presentations designed specifically for healthcare professionals to help them explore best practices in Geriatric care. This conference will focus on integrated care practices and will foster discussion on how you, as a professional working with the geriatric population, can work to improve the care of your elderly patients or clients. Multiple sessions throughout the day will address the most prevalent conditions among the geriatric population and practical steps for treating those conditions as well as community resources and initiatives.

Objectives

At the completion of this knowledge based activity, the participant should be able to:

- Define what integrated care means for the aging population.
- Discuss the Dementia Care Practice Recommendations and how those can be generalized and integrated into practice by any healthcare professional.
- Identify the most prevalent conditions among the geriatric population and discuss practical steps for maximizing care for those conditions.
